

A ROV is programmed to follow the horizontal path shown in the diagram above.

Will the readings on its instruments show a change on the pressure surrounding it when passing above the rock?

Clearly justify your answer and label on the above diagram the parameters you use in your demonstration.